Local Teacher Enjoys European Tour

Everyone is interested in the new addition to our high school staff teachers - Miss Ruth Weinheimer of Wellington, Alberta.

A year ago Miss Weinheimer and her girlfriend left Canada - they were determined to hitch-hike across Europe, aiming to travel in any possible vehicle available.

The 15th of July, 1953 was an unforgettable day in Miss Weinheimer's life. For years she had looked forward to a boat trip and at last she was going to get one - a good long one. She sailed on the S. S. Atlantic, tourist class. But alas, the weather was poor and Miss Weinheimer was terribly seasick for three days. Ruth abandoned her yen for sailing and flew back to Canada.

The first thing Ruth noticed when she reached Southampton, England, was the thousands of chimney pots a result of lack of central heating. She bought a bicycle in London and starting from the south coast, she journeyed to Devonshire, from there she cycled north through Bath, Oxford and Stratford. Here she visited Shakespeare's birthplace and enjoyed a Shakespearean play. They then continued through dusty Birmingham (continued on page two)

These days, it is rather astounding to me to check the securities market and see the prices of stocks on my own special list. And the bountiful dividend rates which exist. My pets have proved even more lush than I thought them—I find I'd be wealthy today, had I bought them.

 and Manchester. Next was the Lake District. They found refuge from the pouring rain in the Youth Hostels. Here they met students from all over the world. Taking the train to Glasgow they hitch-hiked to Edinburgh arriving there just in time for the International Festival of art, music and drama. Next they travelled south to New Castle and on to London. Only one month had passed. They sold their bikes and took the channel ferry to Holland. Ruth loved hitch-hiking through clean colorful, friendly Holland. South-east Belgium proved industrial. They enjoyed six wonderful days in Paris; but Ruth suffered from food poisoning ring worm, hives and dropsy. For a change of climate the girls toured central Switzerland. From here they moved on to France. A negro guide took them over winding roads of the French Alps. Stopped a few days at the French Riviera which she thought very artificial. In Monte Carlo they visited a real Casino, but didn't gamble. It was raining and the girls travelled third class on the train through Northern Italy. Venice, Ruth said was a dream, interestingly different. She travelled only by foot or boat, because of narrow alleyways and canals, and saw fascinating shops and architectural structures. They spent two wonderful weeks in Vienna, exploring castles and monuments of Austrian Royal history. In spite of war bombing, Vienna didn't lose its gaiety and carefree atmosphere. Music, music and more music was alive there. Ruth was disappointed she couldn't photograph the monument of Johann Strauss since it was scaffolded for cleaning. With money running low they went job hunting in Germany. After much difficulty she landed a job with the U. S. Army in Mannheim, teaching English to non commissioned officers and Puerto Rican soldiers. Since December Miss Weinheimer has spoken and lived with the Germans, taking tour now and then.

We want to thank Miss Weinheimer for coming all the way from Germany to teach the Raymond High School students French, English and psychology. She is planning to finish out this year here and we wish her the best of luck towards her ambition to return again to Europe.

EDUCATION FOR THE HANDICAPPED IN ALBERTA

What is the Alberta Department of Education doing for children who are handicapped?

For more than 30 years the Department has provided for the education of blind and deaf children in special school in other provinces. Most attend the Ontario School for the Blind at Brantford, or the Saskatchewan School for the Deaf at Saskatoon; others go to the B.C. School for the Deaf and Blind at Vancouver, the Nazareth Institute for the Blind at Montreal, and the Institute for Deaf Girls and Boys in the same city.

These children go with the consent of their parents. The Department of Education pays their transportation, tuition, and living costs while they are away from home. Competent and kindly escorts take them to and from school in private railway cars. More than 20 blind children and more than 100 deaf children are now provided for in this way. In happy environments and trained by sympathetic teachers they learn the things other children learn. Each one, as well, learns a trade. Nearly all Alberta children who have graduated from these schools are now successfully employed here in Alta. Many have done well in baking, glazing, hairdressing, piano tuning, and barbering; others are employed in machine shops and offices, and in executive positions.

A new residential school for the deaf, the most up-to-date and efficient of its kind is under construction in Edmonton.

Other Alberta children whose eyesight or hearing is impaired attend special classes at Calgary and Edmonton in sight-saving classes the children's eyes are protected by non-glass lighting and special equipment, such as tape recorders, and an emphasis on oral work. In hearing-conservation classes special group and individual hearing aids and other acoustic equipment are used. Many children these classes become so well adjusted that they are able to return to regular classes for their high school work.

Fifteen special classes in the four largest cities provide for children of low mental ability. Here pupils receive individual training, and skills in reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling are taught with each student proceeding at his own rate. Crafts such as simple woodwork, weaving and sewing are taught and older pupils receive training in home economics or shop work.

School Boards are encouraged by special grants from the Department of Education to provide opportunity classrooms and specially gifted teachers for children of these groups. Other special grants, up to $1,650 per class-room, are available to assist school boards who wish to provide instruction for children who are so far retarded mentally that they cannot profit from the work even of the opportunity classes.

The Department of Education also provides special grants for speech therapy and therapeutic physical training as well as dayschool services for children who attend the Cerebral Palsy Clinics in Calgary and Edmonton. Children confined for long periods in hospitals, are provided with free lessons from Correspondence School Branch of the Department. Others are taught by part-time or full-time teachers; and in several hospitals there are specially equipped classrooms, tastefully decorated, with desks for those who can use them, but with plenty of floor space to take care of children who have to be brought in on wheel chairs or beds. The Department of Education, working in co-operation with sponsoring organizations, or with the Department of Public Health, provides special grants towards the maintenance of these classes.

MASTER FARM FAMILY AWARDS

Winners of the 1954 Master Farm Family awards were announced today by Hon. L. C. Halmrast, Minister of Agriculture. This is the sixth year of the Master Farm Family Award Program.

This year's Master Farm Families are:

Martin Arndt Family
Barrhead
Harlie H. Conrad Family
Clairmont
Adam Buyer Family
Carbon
William Storch Family
Garden Plains
Ansley King Family
High River

Each family receives an award of $1,000, an engraved plaque, and a name plate for the farmstead entrance.

The Master Farm Family programs main objective is to honor Alberta farmers who have achieved outstanding success in farming and in family and community life. The program emphasizes the advantages of the farming vocation and the spiritual and material satisfaction of farm life. Through the program, farm youth become acquainted with the opportunities which agriculture offers and with the ideals to which professional farmers aspire.

"Good Farming, Right Living and Clear Thinking is the slogan of the Master Farm Family Program," Mr. Halmrast said. "In these three phases are summarized the principles which should guide all those who make the cultivation of Alberta's soil their vocation."

"These principles have been followed by the five families whom we honor this year. I feel that their achievements in agriculture, home-making and good citizenship deserve public recognition and respect."

Increased interest in the program was evident this year with 32 families receiving nominations for the awards last year 22 were nominated. All candidates must be Canadian citizens who have operated a farm either as owner or lessee for 20 consecutive years. Three neighbors must make the nomination and the nominated family must agree to accept the honor.

Winners are selected on a regional basis and confirmed by a provincial committee. Each regional agriculturist a home economist, a housewife and a representative from the Dominion Experimental Farms. Each region corresponds roughly to one of the five Alberta soil zones.

A total of 87 factors related to the farm operation, farm life, community work and business management are evaluated in each case and points given for each factor. Candidates are rated in comparison with a maximum possible score for each point.

The minister of Agriculture extends the congratulations of the Alberta Government to the five families whose high achievements gained them the awards. He also congratulated the other candidates, emphasizing that nomination is a great honor in itself and proof of the community's admiration and respect. Mr. Halmrast commended the painstaking work of the selection committees, whose assistance in the program is invaluable.

A retired school teacher returned after many years to the town where he had taught. There he discussed with a native the various citizens of the community who had attended his school.

"And then," said the teacher, "there was young Eddie Thomas, Man, but wasn't he a daredevil."

"He still is," the native said.

"At his age?" the old teacher marvelled.

"Yes, haven't you heard? He's our parson."

WHAT DOES PUBLIC WELFARE DO IN ALBERTA

Public Welfare has become an important activity at all levels of government. In free societies such as Alberta the welfare for the unfortunate is the concern of every citizen and on this account there is need of a central organization to advise and assist all general community programmes to ease the burden of the handicapped.

This is the reason why welfare as administered by the Department of Public Welfare has always been an integral part of the Alberta Government's welfare programme which, with the exception of the Blind Persons' Allowances and the Old Age Assistance, is financed, entirely out of Provincial revenues. Ten years ago the total expenditures for this purpose amounted to $5,216,887, while the amount provided for the present fiscal year has been set at $10,902,945.

The responsibility for providing assistance in the form of food, fuel, clothing and shelter and, when necessary hospital and medical services to indigent persons rests with the municipality in which residence has been acquired. The Province provides grants to municipalities up to sixty percent of the cost of such assistance. The cost of providing the same form of assistance to persons who have no municipal residence is assumed by the Province.

Single, homeless, unemployed men who have not acquired municipal residence are cared for in the Provincial hostels at Calgary and Edmonton. Those who are not in need of any special care are transferred to the healthy atmosphere at Gunn Welfare Depot.

The training and rehabilitation of Alberta's Metis population is also provided by the Province. In Colonies established in various parts of Alberta more than 2000 persons of mixed blood are living a protected life that offers them a future of independence and material success. Agriculture, lumbering and fishing are engaged in, providing revenue and a sense of self-sufficiency to the Colonists. Provision is made for the education of children and their spiritual welfare is provided for by representatives of various religious denominations. General stores operate in two of the larger Colonies supplying food and clothing at reasonable prices.

To enable municipalities to meet the housing requirements of their elderly or infirm citizens the Province has made provision for the payment of construction grants to any municipality which builds homes for its residents who have been transferred to larger centers, which situation seldom exists a grant up to 50% of the cost thereof is available from the Province.

Under an agreement with the Government of Canada the Alberta Government has set up a Committee to deal with the rehabilitation of disabled persons by arranging medical treatment where necessary and for vocational training with a view to enabling such persons to become self-supporting.

Children who have become permanent wards of the Government are placed in foster homes and as a rule are available for adoption.

The entire cost of administration of these services and of Old Age Assistance, Blind Persons' Allowances, Widows' Pensions, Disabled Persons' Pensions, Supplementary Allowances and Mothers Allowances is assumed by the Province. Of the payments made to recipients of Old Age Assistance and Blind Persons' Allowances a portion is recoverable from the Government of Canada, while in the case of Child Welfare and Mothers Allowances the municipalities in which the beneficiaries reside or have acquired residence are liable for a portion of the amount expended.

ROTARY CLUB

Special guest at the banquet was Dee Kenney, with his parents, and several others who were guiding hands in the formation of the Dee Kenney Fund. It was a thrill for everyone to see Dee able to get around under his own power.

After the program Governor Glen spoke of recent European tour he and his wife had taken and told of some of the advantages of being a Rotarian for the future. Governor Glen was quite pleased with the reports presented and complimented the Club.

The two hour business meeting conducted by the Governor gave each director and president a chance to tell of the Club's activities and the plans for the future. Governor Glen was quite pleased with the reports presented and complimented the Club.

Another interesting and educational program was held recently when J. Golden Snow, chairman of the local School Board talked to the Club concerning the inclusion of the Raymond School District into the County of Warner. Mr. Snow told of events leading up to the application being made and the result if the application is accepted.

As usual the ladies supplied the hungry Roters with a delicious dinner.

Two women shoppers, notes the Wall Street Journal, were browsing in the basement of a large store. Suddenly one turned to the other and said, "Sally, as long as we don't intend to buy anything, we might as well go upstairs and look over the high priced stuff!"

Amid life's quests, there seems but worthy one, to do men good.

Common sense in an uncommon degree is what the world calls wisdom.
